Outcomes Assessment Social Sciences (Fall 2009)

We propose to collect, review and analyze information about student learning in Political Science courses for the purposes of improving learning and teaching and meeting the new accreditation standards making a student learning outcomes assessment mandatory as part of our institutional self-study. This year's project requires the development of a summary of last year's data, scoring this year's assessment papers from at least 6 courses, and a comparison report of both year's results. With this analysis and report, we can identify the most effective practices in teaching our discipline. Dr. Jennifer Danley-Scott will provide the data analysis, comparison and writing necessary to produce this report.
